

LUNCHEON FOR THE SAILOR VISITORS

Bluejackets From the Atlantic Fleet Entertained by City of London.

FEAST IN ANCIENT HALL

Pleasing Speech of Boatwain's Mate Benson Takes the Englishmen by Surprise.

London, Dec. 3.—Sir Thomas Vesey Strong, the lord mayor, and the corporation of the city of London, today gave a luncheon at Guild hall to 750 American sailors from the visiting fleet at Gravesend and Wymouth.

The bluejackets arrived by train at Charing Cross, headed by Commander Sims of the Minnesota, and the officers of staff, and accompanied by the band of the Cold Stream guards, which the war office had ordered out for the occasion, marched through the streets in the west end of the city to the ancient hall, where so many famous guests have been honored.

A big crowd assembled outside the station and lined the streets on which the traffic had stopped. They gave the Americans a rousing welcome.

Arriving at Guild hall the visitors formed into a quadrangle while the band played the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Received by Mayor.

Sir Thomas received Commander Sims and his officers in the reception hall, and before luncheon was served passed on to the dining hall greeting the guests. The bluejackets were seated at long tables in the main hall. At the head of the table was the lord mayor, with Commander Sims at his right, and with aldermen and uniformed officers around them. In the gallery the lord mayor's wife entertained Mrs. Reid, wife of the American ambassador, and the wives of the visiting officers. The menu was simple, but plentiful, including turkey and great barons of beef carried in with pompous ceremony, plum pudding and mince pie.

The dining was followed first by formal toasts to King George and President Taft. Sir Thomas then welcomed the sailors. He said it had been a privilege to receive the officers of the American fleet yesterday, and that the corporation of the city of London was equally proud to receive in the same hall today the men of the American navy, adding:

"I offer you the heartiest welcome of England, where no one is more popular than behind the gun. The American flag is regarded with a large share of affection which is felt for our own men."

Response of Commander Sims.

Replying, Commander Sims spoke with enthusiasm of the friendly manner in which the men of the fleet had been received in London. This, he said, could not happen in any other country, but was made possible by the strong ties of blood between the two countries.

Speaking for himself, he believed that if the time ever came when the British empire was menaced by an external enemy it might count upon every man, every drop of blood, every ship and every dollar of their kindred across the sea.

Chief Boatwain's Mate S. E. L. Benson of the battleship Minnesota, replied on behalf of the men, expressing thanks for the entertainment in a neat speech, which took the Englishmen by surprise, and which was frequently interrupted by the guests with spontaneous cheers for the lord mayor and the city of London.

At Crystal Palace a football eleven from the battleship Idaho defeated the team from the battleship Connecticut by a score of five to nothing, thereby winning the navy cup.

AMERICAN GIRL LOSES HER TITLED HUSBAND

He was twenty-six years old and was to have become court chamberlain at the Kaiser's court, the present master of ceremonies being an uncle, Prince Zu Eulenber.

WONDERFUL CURE OF SORE HANDS

Skin Peeled and Flesh Got Hard and Broke—Blood Flowed in Fifty Places—"Single Box of Cuticura Ended Suffering."

"About eleven years ago I was troubled with sore hands, so sore that when I would put them in water the pain would nearly set me crazy, the skin would peel off and the flesh would get hard and break. There would be blood flowing from at least fifty places on each hand. I also tried many remedies, but none of them ever did me one cent's worth of good. I was discouraged and heartless. I would feel so bad mornings when I got up, to think I would have to go to work and stand the pain for ten hours, and I often felt like giving up my position."

Before I started to work mornings I would have to wrap my fingers separately, so as to try and keep them soft and then wear gloves over the rags to keep the grease from getting on my work. At night I would have to wear gloves all the time. After doctoring for three years, and spending much money, a single box of Cuticura Ointment ended all my sufferings. It's been eight years since I used any and I don't know what sore hands are now, and never lost a day's work while using Cuticura Ointment. Thomas A. Clancy, 310 N. Montgomery St., Trenton, N. J., Nov. 11, 1909."

A single set of Cuticura Soap and Ointment is often sufficient, rendering it the most economical treatment for a affliction of the skin and scalp. Sold throughout the world. Putzer Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, U.S.A.

LIBBY BAKER IN THE CONVENTION

Educational Qualification for Voters Stricken From the Arizona Constitution.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 2.—The educational qualification for voters, which, it has been freely predicted, would cause Congress to reject Arizona's constitution, was stricken from that document today after one of the liveliest sessions of the convention. The progressive Democrats divided on the question, advocating the qualification that all voters be able to read, and the debate was heated.

Though the provision was adopted by a large majority on first consideration of the measure, it was snatched under today by a vote of thirty to fourteen and the amendments providing qualifications of future voters were also defeated.

Just before adjournment today Delegate Connolly, champion of the women's suffrage, almost succeeded in getting through an amendment to the election measure, which would have given a general franchise to women taxpayers. His amendment actually passed, but as soon as the convention realized the effect of the amendment, the hall was thrown into turmoil and the measure, coming up immediately for final passage, was voted down.

Final passage was effected today of the taxation system, with the restoration of the provision that only taxpayers shall vote at bond elections; the corporation regulation measure with an amendment imposing an annual tax of $10 on all foreign and domestic corporations; and that prohibiting labor contracts, which waive the right to damages from injuries or death.

A feature of the debate on the taxation measure was a motion by Delegate Crutfield, the minister member to remove the exemption accorded the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. from taxation, he saying that he did not believe they should be exempted. The motion carried, but later Crutfield moved its reconsideration, stating he had been under a misapprehension, but the convention refused to concur.

The tax placed on corporations, it is estimated, will more than pay the salaries of all state officers as well as discourage legitimate concerns from incorporating in Arizona.

An unique communication was received from a woman in Globe, asking the same tax exemption for "old maids" as is allowed to widows. It was referred to Delegate Connolly.

MISSING FOR A WEEK

Search Being Made for George J. McPherson, Who Disappeared From Los Angeles.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)

Los Angeles, Dec. 3.—George J. McPherson of 1848 Maple avenue, has been missing for a week, says Mrs. McPherson, a little gray-haired, kindly woman. Her husband left home last Monday to accept a business proposition with an official of the Pacific Electric railway. Upon his departure they embraced and kissed each other. Mrs. McPherson said she had not seen him since. She is a mechanical engineer, and while a resident of Salt Lake City, invented many notable electrical devices for eastern railways.

SENATORS NOW DIVIDED ACCORDING TO SEATS

Washington, Dec. 2.—If the Senate is not changed by further deaths before March 4, the new Senate of 1911 will witness an exclusive division of the two parties on the floor, the result of the kind for many years. The Republicans, on the Democratic side and forty-two on the Democratic side, and the political division of the House will be on that basis.

INSTANTLY KILLED

Italian Officer and Private Fall Eighty Feet in Aeroplane.

Rome, Dec. 2.—An aeroplane carrying an Italian officer and a private fell from a height of eighty feet at the military grounds at Centocelle this evening. Both men were killed instantly. The aeroplane, a Farman machine, was in charge of Engineer Cammarota and the accident appears to have been due to an attempt to make a short turn.

Cammarota is the third Italian officer to be killed in an aeroplane accident in the last four months. Lieutenant Vivadi and Lieutenant Saglitti both met death while making flights.

OVATION TO POST

Aviator Little the Worst for His Accident at New Orleans.

New Orleans, Dec. 3.—Augustus Post felt little the worse today as the result of his narrow escape from death yesterday at the city park aviation field. It will be several days before he will attempt any flights, however. There were no spectacular flights today. Jimmie Ward was forced to abandon his attempt to surpass the altitude record for low power machines by reason of engine trouble. They made several pretty glides from a height of about 1,000 feet.

Aviator Post was given a great ovation when he appeared on the field. The meet will continue tomorrow and Monday.

MORE TROOPS AT THE FRONT NOW

fight, however, and reports brought in by passengers from the west contradict each other in a great degree.

According to the most consistent information, the government troops who met defeat were a band of 150 who left the train at San Andreas nearly two weeks ago, when the coaches were attacked by revolutionists. They escaped at that time and up to last Tuesday had been moving west, gaining food and water in a haphazard fashion.

Hunger, it is said, drove them to Pedernales, where insurgents were known to be.

Attack in Force.

The revolutionists, by a long-range fire, drew them close to the village, where they were in a position to fire from roofs and windows. The two officers at their head were killed and a number of soldiers reported anywhere from nine to twenty. Several prisoners were captured and are said to have followed the Latin-American custom of joining the enemy. Governor Sanchez explained to the Associated Press correspondent today that, owing to the death of the officers, he was without reliable advice. He understood, he said, that about fifty of the soldiers made good their retreat and were endeavoring to return to Chihuahua.

The governor confirmed the report that reinforcements are expected here daily to garrison the town, while the force of 500 troops now here proceed along the Mexican and Northwestern railway in an attempt to pacify the disaffected districts. He anticipated some fighting of a guerilla nature in the mountains.

Many False Rumors.

False alarms of fighting within easy riding distance of here have been frequent, creating among foreigners a feeling of pleasurable excitement rather than alarm. The foreigners would not be unduly frightened even if the city itself were taken. The revolutionists have given no assurances of their friendliness for that.

An example occurred today. A factory superintendent, who is a resident of the town telephoned in that he had seen forty insurgents moving around a distant hill. Two shots were fired, he said, had been heard, and a detachment of soldiers were on their way out to meet the enemy.

It was the lunch hour, and most people waited to complete the meal before starting for the scene. Automobiles and cabs were called into requisition and a large number of persons took the five-mile trip. Such occurrences are growing monotonous, but each time the self-same cavalcade makes the trip, hoping with their own eyes to capture one indisputable fact from the mass of rumor which forms the gossip of the streets and of the clubs.

Insurgents Gaining.

Every mining and business man who has arrived here yesterday and today agrees on certain points—that the revolutionists are gaining in strength; that they are well officered; that they treat foreigners with the greatest consideration, and that they have plenty of money. Business, they add, has been greatly depressed by the uncertainty and excitement of laborers. There is no truth in the report that mines in the Madera district are short of food. The mines in that section usually have a supply sixty days ahead of present needs.

A story typical of the situation comes from Minaca. At that point a store owned by a German named Funker was entered by revolutionists recently. The next day a leader of the insurgents appeared with a list of the goods confiscated. It tallied exactly with one made up by the storekeeper. The insurgents produced a large roll of money, from which he paid the usual price of the goods. He then insisted on paying for the broken locks, explaining that he and his comrades had plenty of money.

One Leader a Chemist.

The revolutionists are by no means solely of the peasant class. In fact, the small ranch owner is said to be largely represented. The insurgent commander at San Andreas is Francisco Valdes y Vasquez, a chemist and assayer of this city, who is also the author of a book on assaying. The usual trains move on the railroads. They are scrutinized at various stations, but are otherwise unmolested. There is no truth in the report that the governor of this state has been changed, or that a change is expected. The son of Enrique Creel, foreign minister, was reported missing a week ago, has been heard from and is perfectly safe.

No demonstration was occasioned here by the inauguration of President Diaz at Mexico City.

FOSS EXPLAINS

Claims to Be Following Precedent Set by Governor Hughes.

Wareham, Mass., Dec. 3.—In a speech delivered here today at the close of his three days' speaking tour of Cape Cod, Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss explained his ground for opposing the re-election of United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. He said his action in appealing to the people direct was not without precedent, and he instances the success in this direction of Governor Hughes of New York. He added: "A governor should be the representative of popular will, and of going over this state calling the people together and discussing with them the question of the return to the United States Senate of Henry Cabot Lodge, I am doing no revolutionary thing."

SHOT BETTER THAN THE STEEL ARMOR

Plates on Warships Fail to Withstand the High-Power Projectiles.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The spot appears to be getting the better of the armor in the never-ending contest for supremacy between the two, according to Rear Admiral N. E. Mason, chief of the naval ordnance bureau. In his annual report he says that the conditions and outlook with regard to armor-plating projects, formerly unsatisfactory, have improved very much during the year, the quality of the shells supplied by the firms is better, and the outlook is more satisfactory than for several years, though the lack of an adequate supply of large calibre shells continues to be a matter of serious concern.

On the other hand, the advance in armor has not been entirely satisfactory so far as thick plates are concerned, and certain new processes, while giving promise of ultimate improvement, have failed to lend themselves to the installation of the armor on shipboard. In the meantime, the improvement in projectiles.

But this plates have shown marked improvement, and the hardening methods formerly limited to two-inch plates have gradually been extended to plates up to four inches, and it is possible they may be indefinitely extended and thus solve the problem existing with regard to thick plates.

Notwithstanding some adverse foreign criticisms, the ordnance board is well satisfied with the present smokeless powder. A new "stabilizer" has been introduced with great success.

The "pure food law" is designed by the Government to protect the public from injurious ingredients in foods and drugs. It is beneficial both to the public and to the conscientious manufacturer.
